Subject: Gerald Goen resign from BAC

Since it would appear we have sold our home, it seems this is the appropriate time for me to resign from the Budget Advisory Committee.

I want to thank Mayor Alahouzos, who asked me to serve when the BAC was first formed. To City Manager LeCouris, my appreciation for listening, being open to new ideas and acting when it was appropriate. To Paul Smith and Karen Lemons, my regards for being open to the solar projects and Walking Community concept and making them happen. To Chief Kochen for his loyal attendance and willingness to work with me. To all of the Commissioners, especially those I have known well, thanks for your support. To those who have been members of the BAC over the years, especially the current committee: Marty, Roger, Dan, and Frank, it has been a pleasure working with you and keep up the outstanding contribution to the residents of the City. You are intelligent, resourceful, and forward thinking people. To Irene and Michele whose silent duty is to listen to the long hours of chatter, thank you for your service.

Tarpon Springs has a long history to be proud of, but a more importantly a future to create. It is hard for us to think of not being apart of this community.

Being a members of the BAC has been one of the more rewarding moments in my life. I have learned from the experience and believe I and the others have contributed to the well being of the residents and progress of the City. While much is left to be done to achieve a true Walking Community, Energy self-sufficiency, and the battle against sea level rise, a good start has been made. Just act quickly!

I hope my replacement will be a female and more importantly a member of the African-American community. Those two elements are too frequently overlooked. As we return over the next few years, I hope to see many of you and to see Tarpon Springs continue to be that neat little, distinct community with a look to the future.

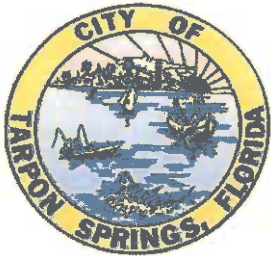

I will try to make the next BAC meeting long enough to say good-bye.

Good health and best wishes to all.

Gerald Goen

June 27, 2016

I saw in Friday's paper that the City of Tarpon Springs has openings on the Budget Advisory Committee.

I would like to be a member of that Committee for the following reasons.

I have been active in Tarpon Springs as a resident since approximately 1981

I have a BA in Business Management

I have an A.A.S in Accounting

I have run on three occasions for City Commission and in 2013 when I ran I was one of four candidates. I was the only candidate who new the city was not depleting the reserves and in fact had increased them. (see enclosed article February 22, 2013. "Is Tarpon fiscally sound")

During the 2016 budget discussions I attended all the meetings of the BAC.

In March 2016 I received nearly 3,000 votes for City Commission. I am a recognized voice for residents of Tarpon Springs.

I have no personal agenda and have never ran with any personal agenda.

I am known in the Community and serve on a variety of committees and will be an asset to the BAC not just a member in name only.

At a forum, commission candidates debate the status of city reserves

By [Name] Staff Writer

TARPON SPRINGS — As City Commission candidates gathered for a forum this week, they seemed to agree on almost every thing.

Development is good. Taxes are high. Local businesses need our help. Code enforcement should be consistent. And the port springs should keep its own police department and fire department.

But on one item, the candidates debated: the status of city reserves.

Some candidates argued that reserves are too small, on the order of $1 million. Others argued that reserves are too large, on the order of $10 million. The debate centered on whether the city should maintain its current level of reserves or increase them.

...nearly half each year, she said. If anything, the fund has got less he added in recent years. In 2017, the city had $8.5 million in reserves, which gradually increased until 2019, according to many candidates.

"We have to have a conversation about every year, we have to hold the line on our own rainy-day fund," Walker said. He said he would like to see the grass-roots candidates have had a year to study the fund.

City officials said they have 10 percent of the budget in reserves for emergencies, which is a common cause of economic instability. The city is far above that minimum at about 50 percent. Compared to many Florida cities, that's a fortune, according to a report by the Florida League of Cities. Most cities surveyed reported no policy for budgeting for reserves. And out of the 197 that do have a policy, the average reserve fund was 21 percent.

Existing studies suggest having a reserve fund around 17 percent, but Walker said he would like to see the grass-roots candidates have had a year to study the fund.

Walker's concern over the fund is echoed in his work with the city's budget committee. In 2012, a consultant hired by the city prepared several financial scenarios, including one in which property values (and therefore property taxes) declined and then rebounded slightly. Based on that model, the city's reserve fund could easily have plummeted to 30 percent by 2018, Walker said.

"(The analysis) showed us you've got to be really careful with what you budget and how much you spend," she said. "It was kind of a wake-up call." In fact, property values in Pinellas County are on the upswing and the city is continuing to limit expenditures.

And the city could bring in some extra cash from an expanded tax base within the next five years. The Tampa Bay Times reported last week that Spring is going through a mini-construction boom, with eight new subdivisions or apartment complexes in the works.

"We've done conservative estimates because we don't want to count our chickens before they're hatched," Walker said. "But if it all comes to pass, it's wonderful for the city to have that growth."
